Homemade Holiday Cookies

Donated by Martha Ades

Do you hate to bake? You can have 10 dozen homemade Holiday Cookies delivered to your home on a specified date after December 10th. I will work with the winner to meet preferences for nuts/no-nuts, chewy or crisp, chocolate/no-chocolate, etc. See the picture online for samples.

Dinner for Two, Brought to You

Donated by Meg Harrelson

Do you have a special event coming up but you don't cook, or would like a break from the kitchen, or would just like to do something a little different? Treat your nearest and dearest to dinner for two (five dishes) prepared in my kitchen and delivered to your house ready to serve, complete with a bottle of wine. Then just kick back and relax in the comfort of your own home with a delicious meal to enjoy, no kitchen cleanup and no drive home. Perfect for a special night in! You'll receive sample menus to choose from, so you can pick what you'd like to have. Your dietary restrictions honored; I prefer not to cook red meat (beef, pork, lamb). My friends say I'm a good cook, and I got good reviews on the food I prepared for this dinner last year. Past favorites have been a Greek-inspired meal with avgolemono, vegetables, and baklava. Also a Spanish-inspired meal with spicy shrimp, mushrooms, and sangria sorbet.

Hand-Knit Blanket

Donated by Mary Paxton

1101 Day Trip for an In-depth Exploration of Gettysburg National Battlefield Park

Donated by Ruth and David McWilliams

3 available.

On May 13, 2017 the winners will join UUCF member David McWilliams, retired Army officer and military history instructor, for a daylong visit to hallowed ground where for three days, in July 1863, Americans met on the field of battle in what became a turning point of the Civil War. David will meet the participants at UUCF, at 6:30 AM, for the drive to Pennsylvania. Once at Gettysburg, the day will start at the Visitors' Center with a viewing of the short film A New Birth of Freedom and the Gettysburg Cyclorama. There will be time to walk through the center's museum of the Civil War. We will finish our morning by walking the part of the battlefield that defined the first day of battle while we discuss the tactics and people who fought there. Lunch will be at the historic 1776 Dobbin House Tavern in Gettysburg. After lunch, we'll visit the scenes of the decisive actions on the second two days of battle while continuing our discussion of how the battle shaped the final years and the outcome of the war. We'll finish our day around 4:30 pm in the National Cemetery at the spot where Abraham Lincoln delivered the Gettysburg Address. We'll return to UUCF to end the trip at about 6:30 PM. Participants should plan to walk during the tour as we follow the beginning of Picket's Charge, explore the Devil's Den and the two Round Tops, all scenes of significance to those three days in July 1863. Included are the transport, tour and handouts provided by David, admission to the film, cyclorama, and museum, and lunch at Dobbin House Tavern. Approximate value of $100 per seat. Date: Saturday, May 13, 2017, 6:30 a.m.; rain date May 20, 2017

1213 $30 "Crappy" Dinner

Donated by Cunningham-Bowen Family and Hochberg Smerke Family

11 available.

A 2015 mothering.com article by Kelley Powell introduced us to the idea of "crappy dinners." She described her attempts to drop pretense and stress and to increase the connections with friends in her life. Her crappy dinner rules are: 1) No housework is to be done prior to a guest's arrival. 2) The menu must be simple and not involve a special grocery shop. 3) You must wear whatever you happen to have on. The author wrote, "There is an old proverb that says, 'Tension is who you think you should be. Relaxation is who you are.' Crappy dinner is all about placing priority on what truly matters, and about accepting life for all of the beautiful, crappy things it throws your way." In that spirit, we invite friends of all ages to join us for dinner! Bidding is per adult attendee; children can attend at no charge. "My wife and I had a lovely, casual evening of great food and conversation. A craptastic time was had by all!" Date: Saturday, June 3, 2017; rain date June 4, 2017,

217 Four tickets to The Jungle Book at Imagination Stage Donated by

Meghan and Tom Crowley

The Jungle Book is the tale of Mowgli, a human child brought up in the jungles of India by a family of wolves. The embittered tiger Shere Kahn may be stalking him, but Mowgli is a quick learner. His friends, Baloo the goofy bear, and Bagheera, the savvy Jaguar, teach him how to gain the trust of the four-footed hunters, the birds, and the snakes so that he will never be friendless. He falls into a bad crowd of silly monkeys who lead him astray and play a mean trick on him. How will Mowgli escape from the deep, dark well? And, how will he save himself when Shere Kahn turns the wolf pack against him? Kipling's timeless classic deals with very timely issues in this lively new version. Mowgli learns to respect his environment and the wisdom of the animals. And he realizes that, as a grown man, it's his responsibility to protect them. More info at

Musical Expressions

1600 Two Tickets to Midwestern Gothic - a World Premiere Musical at Signature Theater

Donated by Meghan and Tom Crowley

A wildly original world premiere musical from the award-winning composer of Adding Machine that will provoke—even shock—and thoroughly entertain. Set in a frozen little town in the middle of continental nowhere, Midwestern Gothic paints a vivid portrait of a young woman, Stina, who is desperate to escape her everyday surroundings. Stina's wild and twisted imagination drives her to create more and more bizarre diversions that suddenly take a perverse turn toward a surprising end. With a gorgeous contemporary score by Royce Vavrek (librettist) & Josh Schmidt (composer) that weaves together rock, country and pure fantasy, this innovative musical thriller will leave you breathless. More information here: <http://www.sigtheatre.org/events/2016-17/midwestern-gothic/>. Tickets available for any performance during the time period listed here. Date: March 14-April 30, 2017
